“It’s great to be working with Louis Dreyfus. They will bring their customary first-class style and high-end approach to development to the SoHo market. 148 Lafayette Street will certainly be the talk of the town as it is redeveloped over the next six to seven months,” said Rob Silver, executive managing director of Newmark Knight Frank.

Located in Manhattan’s SoHo district, the 152,000-square-foot building with typical floors of 12,000 square feet will feature the most exclusive loft office space in the city, including state-of-the-art heating and air conditioning systems, new windows, restrooms and elevators and a renovated facade. When upgrades and renovations are completed in fall 2007, 148 Lafayette Street will offer the best that the city has to offer in terms of location, type of office space and quality of management.

148 Lafayette Street is owned by an investment group including Bruce E. Toll, founder and vice chairman of Toll Brothers, Inc., and affiliates of LDS Investment Group LLC/Louis Dreyfus.
